Eva Haug

Eva Haug is Educational Advisor for Curriculum Internationalization and COIL/VE and senior lecturer Intercultural Competence at the Amsterdam University of Applied Sciences. She's an elected Steering Group member of the EAIE (European Association for International Education) for the Internationalization at Home expert community. She's also a research fellow at the University of the Free State (SA) and works as affiliated trainer for Florida International University.

As educational advisor she provides professional development for lecturers and staff for internationalization of the curriculum and online collaboration. Eva has built a sustainable COIL practice at the AUAS of 100+ projects per year, offering thousands of students the opportunity to experience international and intercultural teamwork by pairing students from Amsterdam with students from all over the world. She has presented about COIL/VE at many conferences and is regularly invited by universities to provide professional development for IoC and COIL.
